Psychiatric Mental Health Nurse Practitioner

The online program of study is designed to prepare graduate nurses to provide adult mental health care in diverse community health settings. Study is focused on individual group and family interventions. Upon completion of the program, the graduate is qualified to apply for the certification examination as a nurse practitioner. The online Psychiatric Mental Health Nurse Practitioner Degree program of study may be taken full-time or part-time. Students may complete the full-time program of study in six semesters.

+ What is the curriculum?

Psychiatric Mental Health Nurse Practitioner

All students admitted to the Family Psychiatric Mental Health Nurse Practitioner Program take courses from the graduate core as well as PMHNP courses. The core courses are designed to enable the student to study the problems and concerns of a specialized area of nursing from a theoretical perspective. Core courses may be completed on a part-time basis prior to admission to the PMHNP program. All students also take a designated number of courses from their area of study. These courses provide students with the opportunity to develop competence and expertise as a psychiatric mental health nurse practitioner.

+ What is the difference between didactic and clinical coursework?

Didactic coursework involves critical thinking and theory development in regards to the certain program. Core courses in the graduate programs are considered didactic. Clinical coursework is taught in conjunction with an already established Nurse Practitioner usually in the student's home area. This nurse practitioner is referred to as a "preceptor." Each program requires an established amount of hours to be logged with a preceptor in order to sufficiently pass the clinical courses.
